written by a leading expert in the field this book analyses the complex relations between the european union eu as a regional organization and the united nations un as an international global governance institution entwicklungszusammenarbeit ist seit jeher ein umstrittenes thema welche ansätze funktionieren wo liegen die probleme und an welchen stellen ist gar ein gänzlich scheitern feststellbar die fragen sind vielfältig gesicherte erkenntnisse gibt es wenige dieses buch trifft ein differenziertes urteil über die wirksamkeit von entwicklungszusammenarbeit die analyse beruht auf der umfassenden auswertung unabhängiger evaluierungsberichte und mehreren hundert interviews die studie umfasst detaillierte beispiele aus über 50 geber und empfängerländern auf fünf kontinenten die einen zeitraum von mehr als 20 jahren abdecken dabei kommt den initiativen deutschlands und der eu besondere aufmerksamkeit zu der schwerpunkt liegt auf der untersuchung der effektivität des engagements im bereich good governance da es sich hierbei um den dreh und angelpunkt globaler entwicklungszusammenarbeit im 21 jahrhundert handelt how did the eu us and canada decide and implement their electoral assistance in the palestinian territories pt why did the eu the us and canada embark on assisting the elections in the pt and what factors influenced their electoral assistance what lessons can be learned for other countries approaching elections after a long period of conflict this book answers these questions and charts the process of electoral assistance with an in depth analysis of each transatlantic actor s electoral assistance in the pt it shows that despite the many institutional and operational differences between the eu the us and canada the three actors do share common interests and influencing factors which often unify their response the book also reveals the limitations facing electoral assistance and the implications of this on the sustainability clarity consistency and responsiveness of the policy in this systematic comparative analysis of european american and canadian efforts to assist elections and transform governance in conflict zones rouba al fattal greatly advances the empirical knowledge of electoral assistance and provides the first steps needed to reform electoral assistance policy to cope with the challenges of the twenty first century over the years the european union has developed relationships with other international institutions mainly as a result of its increasingly active role as a global actor and the transfer of competences from the member states to the eu this book presents a comprehensive and critical assessment of the eu s engagement with other international institutions examining both the eu s representation and cooperation as well as the influence of these bodies on the development of eu law and policy the central aim of this book is to define the approach of eu development policy regarding africa since the end of the cold war it focuses on the impact of eu development policy on the domain of international development and the objective of the eu to become a prominent international actor the book relies on martha finnemore s social constructivist research it concentrates on the dynamics maintained by the eu with the normative basis that characterises the structure and agents of international development and assesses how it affected eu behaviour as expressed through its development policy concerning africa by doing so it exposes both the marked effect of eu development policy in the domain of international development and the form of paradise model of development the eu promoted in africa therein the volume largely confirms the identified agents as the source of the norms that define the structure of international development and the eu as its derivative it argues that eu development policy is currently a general projection of the normative structure of international development specifically regarding the policy orientation of its identified agents as a result the book contends that the eu fell short of its efforts to export its form of paradise to africa since the end of the cold war as a corollary of its limitations to stand as a distinct and leading actor in the domain of international development a critical problem in resource scarce countries across the globe is the shortage of appropriately trained health care providers according to the world health organization the current global health workforce shortage of 7.2 million providers is estimated to increase to 12.9 million by 2035 this disproportionately affects resource scarce countries denying basic health care to millions and limiting access to life saving treatments due to limited resources in these countries not enough health professionals receive training few have the opportunity for continuing education and the ability to develop or implement educational programs and curricula is constrained additionally many existing providers choose to emigrate in pursuit of professional advancement opportunities contributing to the overall shortage of qualified health care providers in these environments efforts to strengthen health workforce capacity not only increases access safety and availability of care but is critical to building resilient health systems capable of caring for the world's neediest populations this requires not only cultivating new health care providers but also providing ongoing professional development to retain and support current providers advancing the level of practice in accordance with current clinical science cultivating educators and enhancing training curricula it is critical also to contribute to the limited body of research documenting the effectiveness and impact of various models of collaborative education and partnership to improve health worker training and retention this research topic examines strategies for building health workforce capacity through the prism of educational partnerships offering significant examples of effective models of international collaborative education as well as insight and guidance on the structure and operation of successful global partnerships collectively the 31 articles accepted and included in this ebook represent a diversity of health professions and geographies across academic non governmental organizations and other global partnership forms the published manuscripts highlight various elements of partnerships with several consistent themes emerging capacity building local empowerment mutual trust and respect long term commitment equity collaboration and the importance of integrating theory and practice for a balance of academic and clinical development the manuscripts provide examples of partnership and educational programs that are in the formative early stages of implementation and others which have been sustained long term some for decades the following ebook is divided into two parts with each part broken down into sections part i of the ebook includes 18 manuscripts that showcase long term educational programs that strongly exemplify multiple foundational aspects of international partnerships in education including mutual collaboration and project management empowerment of host partners to lead and sustain programs and capacity building while individual manuscripts included in part i look broadly at multiple aspects of successful international partnerships in education part ii manuscripts focus intently on one or two elements part ii includes 13 articles that highlight partnership through short rather than long term educational initiatives as well as program development and broad academic partnerships this research topic was sponsored by health volunteers overseas a united states based non profit that collaborates with over eighty international universities and health institutions to send volunteer health professionals to low resource countries to provide continuing education train the trainer courses professional support and consultation on academic program and curricula development this report explores the partnership between the eu and the un in peacebuilding it shows that although both organizations employ a mix of crisis management instruments and aid intended to address structural risk factors there is little agreement on what works and how these instruments should be combined it confirms that the european commission funding relationship with the un is increasingly significant in fragile states while policies are not always aligned this report argues that the key to strengthening operational partnerships is to move the needs assessment planning priority setting and resource allocation to the country level and to ensure that assistance is controlled by a partnership of national and international actors back cover european union eu funding for united nations un organisations has expanded significantly over the last two decades the eu s partnership with the united nations development programme undp is an important example of eu un cooperation and undp was the fourth largest un recipient of european commission funds in 2018 against the backdrop of un and eu reforms that aim to strengthen multilateralism and promote more integrated development cooperation approaches this paper outlines priority areas in eu undp cooperation and modes of cooperation the term added value provides an entry point for identifying the rationales for eu funding to undp in eu budgetary discussions added value is a concept used to inform decisions such as whether to take action at the eu or member state levels or which means of implementation to select these choices extend to the development cooperation arena where the term relates to the division of labour agenda and features in assessments of effectiveness the paper explores three perspectives to consider the added value of funding choices within the eu undp partnership relating to the division of labour between eu institutions and member states the characteristics of undp as an implementation channel and the qualities of the eu as a funder on the first dimension the large scale of eu funding for undp sets it apart from most member states though eu funding priorities display elements of specialisation as well as similar emphases to member states on the second dimension undp s large scope of work its implementation capacities and accountability standards are attractive to the eu but additional criteria including organisational cost effectiveness can alter the perception of added value finally the scale of eu funding and the possibility to engage in difficult country contexts are key elements of the added value of the eu as a funder however the eu s non core funding emphasis presents a challenge for the un resource mobilisation agenda calling for greater flexibility in organisational funding attention to these multiple dimensions of added value can inform future eu choices on how to orient engagement with undp to reinforce strengths of the organisation and enable adaptations envisaged in un reform processes
