dramatic changes in political institutions and behavior over the past three decades have underscored the dynamic nature of american politics confronting political scientists with a new and pressing intellectual agenda the pioneering work of early postwar scholars while laying a firm empirical foundation for contemporary scholarship failed to consider how american politics might change or recognize the forces that would make fundamental change inevitable in reassessing the static interpretations fostered by these classic studies political scientists are now examining the underlying dynamics that generate transformational change transforming american politics is a series that brings together texts addressing four closely related aspects of change a first concern is documenting and explaining recent changes in american politics in institutions processes behavior and policymaking a second is reinterpreting classic studies and theories to provide a more accurate perspective on postwar politics the series looks at historical change to identify recurring patterns of political transformation within and across the distinctive eras of american politics last and perhaps most important the series presents new theories and interpretations that explain the dynamic processes at work and thus clarify the direction of contemporary politics all of the books focus on the central theme of transformation transformation in both the conduct of american politics and in the way we study and understand its many aspects this book offers an ethnographically informed critique of the hyper politicised debate on the facilitation of irregularised migration for people seeking asylum between indonesia and australia while state authorities decry such facilitation as people smuggling and push for its criminalisation the book's focal points are the need for unsanctioned passages for people seeking asylum and the detrimental consequences of the criminalisation of people smuggling for both the facilitators and the people seeking asylum drawing on court verdicts and interviews with convicted facilitators and law enforcement officials in indonesia this book provides a unique and holistic picture of the causes conditions procedures and intricacies surrounding the facilitation of irregularised maritime journeys between indonesia and australia covering almost four decades it scrutinises the micro level operational and place specific characteristics of people smuggling and the consequences of anti people smuggling policies in indonesia and relates those consequences to changes in the macroenvironment which include relevant legal political social and economic factors that determine the overarching conditions of irregularised mobility compared to other states in the global north australia has claimed to be more successful with its comprehensive approach to eliminate unsanctioned migration at sea by combining punitive communicative reventive and interceptive measures this book challenges key achievements and objectives in regard to criminalising the facilitation of irregularised migration by foregrounding the many negative side effects that have emanated from stopping the boats the book will be of interest to researchers in the fields of anthropology and sociology law and criminology asia pacific studies southeast asian studies and international migration this report aims to raise decision makers awareness about the protection deficit concerning the human rights of over 3 7 million people currently living in displacement in sudan and improve their understanding of the need for reform to protect idps right to vote and participate in governmental and public affairs the report highlights obstacles that impede idps right to vote including ongoing conflict restrictive residency or documentary requirements discriminatory laws and practices inability to access polling registration lack of knowledge about politics and elections processes and inadequacy of election dispute resolution mechanisms it also examines sudan s legislation political agreements policies regulations and procedures it also emphasizes aspects of the electoral framework to guarantee inclusiveness transparency and integrity of electoral processes additionally it puts a set of recommendations and options for reforms lastly security budgetary and operational constraints made obtaining data representative of the idp communities a challenge during the production of this report therefore the author relied heavily on idp data collected and compiled by various intergovernmental governmental and nongovernmental organizations this book is about meeting organizational goals through public relations writing at a historical moment when new technology and a fresh strategic vision make it possible to reconceptualize what public relations writing can accomplish organizations such as the sierra club and friends of the earth are familiar to anyone with an interest in environmental protection as activist groups they played by the same rules for years but in 1994 the rules changed with the republican takeover of congress environmental groups faced sweeping changes in federal policies that threatened the enforcement of environmental laws as these organizations intensified their efforts to meet these challenges they also altered their electoral strategies and political spending patterns this book traces those actions and shows what they mean for the future of environmentalism in the political arena while environmental advocacy groups have become bigger and better funded in recent years so have the corporate interests that compete with them for the attention of public and politicians the green agenda in american politics offers a new look at environmental advocacy that focuses on contemporary lobbying electioneering and agenda setting in this new context drawing on interviews with activists from a wide range of organizations robert duffy describes what environmental groups actually do when lobbying officials or the public he examines activity at both national and state levels to emphasize their growing use of websites email and action alert networks to conduct more sophisticated grassroots campaigns and he shows how they are devoting more funds to unregulated forms of spending such as independent expenditure issue advocacy advertising and public education campaigns duffy also tracks emerging trends in interest group politics and provides an overview of activism through the early 1990s he then documents the emergence of more aggressive action after 1994 such as providing campaign services to candidates and mounting voter registration drives he also shows how state and local groups have begun to play more important roles in the wake of the rollback of federal environmental regulations brimming with new insights into interest group lobbies in general and contemporary environmental groups in particular duffy s book opens a new window on the influence of big money in the supposedly democratic electoral process ask most americans and they ll tell you that presidential campaigns get dirtier and more negative with every election this text suggests that this may not be as true as we think and shows that over the last dozen elections negativity may have been well publicised but hasn t increased analyzing the changes in the retail industry and the strategic options now open to companies this work describes the concepts of efficient consumer response and provides cases to demonstrate the results
